

VOTE ON SEWERS
SPRING ELECTION

Yes or No Will Appear on
the Official City
Ballot.

TEST PUBLIC OPINION

An Order to That Effect Will Be Passed by the Common Council Tonight.

CITY NEEDS SEWERAGE BAD

The citizens of Janesville will be given a chance at the coming election
to express their opinion as to whether or not they wish the city to build a system of sewerage.

An order will be introduced at the council meeting this evening ordering
the city clerk to place at the foot of the official city ballot a space for
voting for or against sewerage.

This is not a vote to settle the question of whether or not the sewers
shall be built and the city bonded to pay for them, but simply to get an expression of opinion from the people.
This vote will give the council something to work on when the question
comes up for final settlement.

The question of sewerage is growing in importance every day. The city
during the last few years has put in a considerable amount of concrete pavement and will put in more this year. If the city is to adopt a system of sewerage it would be well to make arrangements for it before any
large amount of paving is done.

The sanitary condition of the city,
while not dangerous at present may get in such shape that an epidemic of typhoid fever might come on and
cause the people to wish that a system of sewerage had been put in.

A complete system need not be put
in at first but could be built a portion
at a time where was the greatest need of it. At first intercepting sewers to carry off the sewerage and
empty it into the river below the Monterey dam could be left out. After a while after the system grew to large proportions these sewers could be put in.

It is absolutely necessary for large manufacturing plants to have sewer-
age. All of them cannot get sites
along the river bank where they are
not bothered about the question,
which is one of the first things inquired about when a plant talks of locating in this city.

The council should grant no more
permits to build sewers to private parties without first adopting some fixed
system and compelling them to build
according to the plans and under the supervision of the city engineer.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY
AT THE CHURCHES

Unusually Large Attendance At Both
the Catholic Buildings Yesterday
—At Congregational Church.

Services appropriate to St. Patrick's day were held in both the local Catholic churches yesterday, and there was an unusually large attendance. Everywhere
the shamrock and fluttering green ribbons were in evidence, and Ireland's
patron saint was reverently remembered.

Members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians attended early mass at St. Patrick's church and took communion. At the 10 o'clock mass Rev. Father Hennessy of Sacred Heart College, Water-
town, preached an able sermon, and the

choir rendered some choice and appropriate music.
At St. Mary's church Prof. Wm.
Thiele assisted the choir, playing cornet
accompaniments to their excellent selections, which were appropriate to the day. Rev. Father Goebel's sermon on St. Patrick was one of the finest eulogies ever given in St. Mary's church,
and held the close attention and interest
of the audience.

At the Congregational Church
Services at the Congregational church
were especially interesting yesterday,
and called forth large congregations
both morning and evening. At the evening service Mrs. Charles H. Adams,
nee Miss Margaret Jones, surprised
and delighted everyone present by singing a little Easter song, the words
of which had been written by Rev. R. O.
Denison. Mrs. Adams had set them to music, unknown to Mr. Denison, and she sang very sweetly the exquisite combination of beautiful words and melody. At the morning service Mr.
and Mrs. Adams sang effectively Gounod's "O Divine Redeemer," and a tenor solo by Mr. Walker of Aurora, Ill., was very finely rendered.

KILLED BY SHOCK
OVER A FIRE LOSS

A Pioneer Milwaukee Cigar Manufacturer Falls Dead on Realizing Damage Done by Fire.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 18.—Fire
which started in the plant of the A.
Meinecke Toy company in Oneida street destroyed $150,000 worth of property and it is believed led to the death of Peter Goebel, an old business man, whose tobacco stock was damaged by the fire. Mr. Goebel was around during the fire, but after it was well under control he dropped dead of heart failure.

FATAL CONFLAGRATIONS.

Four Persons Lost Their Lives in Western Fires.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 18.—The Noyes Norman Shoe factory and the Richardson, Roberts & Byrnes Overall
and Shirt factory, Third and Faraon
streets, were destroyed by fire, causing the death of several persons. All the victims are girls and were employed in the shirt factory. The known dead:
Louise Esmondau, aged 20 years. The known injured: Florence Terry,
Mamie Berry, John Freeder, fireman.
It is believed that seven who are missing have been incinerated. The aggregate loss is $100,000.

Missoula, Mont., March 18.—Three persons were burned to death in the private car of a theatrical company.
The car caught fire at Olive station,
on the Northern Pacific road west of Missoula. The dead: Rena Luckesse, musician, Indiana; Bert Read, Columbus, Kan.; Minnie Hearst, cook, Indiana. One member of the company who was seriously burned has been brought to the Northern Pacific hospital at Missoula.

FEAR LYNCHING AT PONTIAC.

Man Whipped Attacked Girl Near Fairbury
Placed in Jail.

Bloomington, Ill., March 18.—Mamie Mruz, aged 13, daughter of a wealthy farmer near Fairbury, Ill., was assaulted on a public highway by John Kirk employed as a hostler by J. E. Lewis of Fairbury. The girl's father heard her cries and hurried to the scene, but
the girl's assailant escaped in a buggy.
He was pursued by a dozen farmers.
Near Lexington, fifteen miles from Fairbury, he stopped to trade horses
and his pursuers got so near he jumped
from his buggy and leaped on a southbound freight train. At Lexington he was dragged from a freight car by Constable Clawson, put on a north-
bound train and taken to Pontiac,
where he was landed in jail. A strong guard was kept on duty to prevent a threatened lynching.

Miss Mabel Ellis of the town of Plymouth, is spending a few days with friends
in this city.

GENERAL JAMES BINTLIFF DEAD;
BADGER VETERAN OF MANY HONORS

He Was Well Known in Political, Newspaper and Military Circles—Was Once Editor of the Janesville Gazette—A Creditable Record.

Chicago, Ill., March 18.—General
James Bintliff, who for many years was a resident of Wisconsin, and well known
in political, newspaper and military circles, died yesterday at the home of his daughter in Windsor park of apoplexy,
aged 70 years.

General Bintliff was born in Yorkshire, England, Nov. 1, 1824, and came to America in 1841. In 1847 he was married in the state of New York and in 1851 came west, settling at Monroe,
Wis., where he became cashier in a bank. In 1856 he was elected register
of deeds for Green county and was admitted to the bar in 1859. The next year he bought an interest in the Monroe Sentinel, the leading newspaper of the county, of which he afterwards became the sole proprietor.

Soon after the beginning of the war
of the rebellion he recruited a company
of volunteers, of which he was commissioned captain. This company was mustered into the service Sept. 2, 1862,
as Company G of the Twenty-second
regiment, Wisconsin volunteer infantry.
He emerged from the war, noted for conspicuous gallantry and as a brigadier general.

General Bintliff returned to Monroe
and was engaged in mercantile business
until 1870, when he purchased an interest in The Janesville Gazette and removed to that city. He remained in charge of that paper, gaining for it a high standard for literary character and political influence until 1878, when he bought The Republican of Darlington
in La Fayette county. For five years
he edited The Republican with ability,
and then transferred it to his son, E. H.
Bintliff, and J. G. Monahan, the latter of whom became in 1885 and still is its sole owner.

When the Board of Supervision of the Penal and Reformatory Institutions of the state was organized under the law
of 1881 General Bintliff was appointed one of its members. He was also a trustee of the Wisconsin Soldiers' Orphan's home and president of that board
from 1877 until its labors were concluded and the last of its funds distributed to those entitled in 1896.

He remained at Darlington until 1896,
when he removed to Chicago, where he lived with his widowed daughter, Mrs.
Helen Stephens, at 7429 Bond avenue,
Windsor Park. Another daughter, Mrs.
Ida Simpson, with her husband, resided
in the same block, and his only surviving son, Edward H. Bintliff, is editor of The Kankakee Gazette, and lives at Kankakee, Ill. Two grandsons are in business at St. Louis, Mo.

PLANNING A REBELLION IN CUBA

Information That the Natives Are Secretly Preparing for War Against the United States.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 18.—News
reaches here from god authority that
a rebellion is being planned in Cuba
against the United States. This information comes from a member of Mayor Bowden's family, who is a resident of Cuba, and he asserts of his own knowledge that the extreme
element is greatly in the majority, and that they are today secretly preparing
for war, and are making heavy purchases of arms and ammunition. The statement creates considerable excitement among the large Cuban colony here.

DISORDERLY SCENE
ON OCEAN LINER

Sponge Club Formed by a Vaudeville Player Causes Trouble Among
the Passengers.

London, March 18.—An extraordinary scene of riotous disaster occur-
ed in the saloon of the steamship Lucania on the last night of her latest voyage from New York. Passengers who have crossed the ocean
scores of times in all sorts of liners,
confess that they never saw anything
like it before.

A party of eight persons of which
Ugo Biondo, a vaudeville "Lightning Change Artist" was the leading spirit,
started what they styled the sponge
club. A great punch bowl was placed in the center of their table, into
which several bottles of champagne
were decanted. A large sponge was procured, dipped in the bowl, and
sucked by each in turn.

When this performance was finished the sponge was passed around again. This time each individual after having squeezed it in his mouth,
jabbed it on the head of his neighbor.
Loud protests were raised by the other
passengers, but nothing was done
to stop the nauseating rites of this novel club.

LYNCH FOR A SMALL THEFT.

Tennesseeans Shoot and Drown Woman
Accused of Stealing $120.

Nashville, Tenn., March 18.—In all
the history of lynchings in this and
adjacent states there has never been
until now an occasion when a mob
became sufficiently incensed at the suspected theft of a purse containing $120
to accord the death penalty without
waiting for the interposition of justice.
Bessie Crutchfield, a colored woman,
living near Rome, Smith county, was taken from her cabin after midnight
and carried to a bridge over Round Lick creek. There her hands were tied behind her back, she was shot and thrown into the water. The coroner's jury returned a verdict that she came
to her death by the hands of persons unknown. It was not even known whether she had actually taken the pocketbook.

Negro Hanged to a Tree.

Nashville, Tenn., March 18.—A mob hanged Ike Fitzgerald to a tree near
the courthouse at Tiptonville, in Lake county. The negro was charged with assault on a white girl, Miss Mina Davenport, 19 years old, and a trial jury had
just reported that they could not agree
and had been discharged.

must be submitted to Mr. Carnegie
or his deputy. They also sent Mr.
Galbraith exterior and interior plans
of a $50,000 library building being erected at East Orange, N. J. The method of the New York architects
is to work in co-operation with a local architect who takes charge of the erection of the building after their plans.

In Green Bay as soon as the council had notified Mr. Carnegie of their acceptance of his gift, he wrote them
asking how soon they would be ready to go to work. Doubtless the same will be true in this instance and the council's action tonight will set the ball rolling speedily.

CARNEGIE MONEY READY.

Steel King Thanks Green Bay for Complimentary Resolutions.

Green Bay, March 17.—City Clerk
Kerr received a letter from Andrew Carnegie today thanking the city for resolutions passed by the council and asking that he be notified when the city is ready to commence building
after selecting the site.

A RAID ON WILD BEASTS.

A Big Round-Up in Arizona Is Graphically Described.

Yuma, Ariz., March 18.—For a long time mountain lions, bears and wolves
have been raiding the stock on the big cattle ranch of Colin Campbell in Cochise county, with 10,000 cattle on the range.

The heavy loss in calves and yearlings cut down the dividends, and last week Charley Montgomery, a famous hunter who was chief of scouts under Crook during the trouble with the Apaches, was engaged to exterminate
the wild beasts. He engaged 100 Puma Indians and last Saturday held a bi-round-up.

Early in the morning Montgomery's
Indians and a score of cowboys, with 200 dogs, surrounded a district five miles square in the foothills of the Chiricahua range and gradually closed
toward the center.

In the circles catamounts, black
bears, coyotes and an occasional grizzly bear were trapped. Dozens of animals were shot and killed as they attempted to escape through the line.

Two hundred others were cornered
in a box canon and redskins and cowboys picked them off with rifles from
the rocks above.

The final count showed 19 dead
mountain lions, 5 grizzly bears and over 100 coyotes.

CATTLE KING MURDERED.

Body Is Buried Two Miles from J.L.
Wyoming Ranch.

Buffalo, Wyo., March 18.—The partially burned remains of Arapahoe
Brown, one of the richest cattle men
in the northern part of the state, were found in a canyon near the Jaw Bone
ranch on Powder river, seventy-five miles below Buffalo. Friends in Buffalo were alarmed by his absence and
were about to look for him when two strangers came to town with a bunch
of Brown's horses, which they sold.
One of the men carried a watch which
was recognized as Brown's property.
The strangers were arrested and a posse went to the ranch. The floors
and walls of the ranch were splattered
with blood. Brown's saddle was found under the floor, together with some papers belonging to him. Two miles from the ranch the searchers found the remains of a bonfire and in the ashes
the body of the cattle king. Feeling runs high at Buffalo, and unless the
two suspects establish their innocence
they will be roughly handled.

Whipped at Judge's Order.

Owensboro, Ky., March 18.—Judge J.
S. Strman, police judge of this city,
has rendered and enforced a novel
judgment in his court. He had two negro boys, aged 11 and 15, stripped and severely whipped for throwing stones at J. H. James. The boys yelled lustily.

State Senator H. C. Martin of Darlington was in the city today on his way
to Madison.

TIEN TSIN ISSUE
BECOMING GRAVE

Lord Salisbury Is Aware
of the Danger to Great Britain.

GERMANY IS WORRIED

Russians and British Occupy
Long Trenches Only
45 Yards Apart.

FEAR DEATH OF LI HUNG CHANG

London, March 18.—The gravity of the dispatches from Tientsin was such that the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Foreign Minister, and Lord Salisbury
were in frequent communication yesterday and both remained in town to-
day. A telegram from Tientsin says:
"The Russians and British are occupying long trenches only forty-five yards apart. These are filled with troops, but the English outnumber the Russians twenty to one. Unless the St. Petersburg government takes a conciliatory view of the dispute the Russians will attempt to drive out the British. Every possible influence has been brought to bear with the view to arriving at a friendly solution."

German Warned by Russia.

St. Petersburg, March 18.—The official organ of the Russian Ministry of Finance today threatens that Russia
will make strict reprisals in case of any raising of duties by Germany on Russian products.

Fear Death of Li Hung Chang.

Peking, March 18.—The health of Li Hung Chang is again a matter of grave
consideration to the ministers of the powers. Mr. Rockhill, the American
special commissioner, who visited Earl Li yesterday, says he is a physical wreck and apparently in a state
of utter collapse, although mentally as brilliant as ever. Mr. Rockhill would not be surprised to hear of his death
at any moment.

THREATS MADE FOR ANTHRACITE STRIKE

President Mitchell Declares That the Operators Must Meet Workers
or Trouble Will Result.

Scranton, Pa., March 18.—President
Mitchell of the United Mine Workers
said today in the most positive manner that the anthracite operators must meet the union in conference and give
it formal recognition or there will be another strike. The local operators hold that they have virtually recognized the union in renewing the 1900
scale. The uncertainty has already caused a number of Scranton merchants to cancel large orders for goods.

GREAT SYNDICATE
BUYS FARM LAND

Tract of 21,000,000 Acres Said to Have Been Taken to Offer to Farmers from the East.

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—The sale
of 21,000,000 acres of land by the Northern Pacific railroad lying along
the Missouri for $40,000,000, is reported to have closed. The purchasers of this land are said to be eastern
capitalists, who have perfected a syndicate and who will undertake to encourage its settlement and cultivation
by Eastern farmers, who are now heading westward in the homeseekers'
movements each week.

CLIMAX OF ATROCITY IN CHICAGO

Woman Attacked in Alley and Shamefully Misused—
Rings Torn from Her Fingers by Robbers.

Chicago, March 18.—The climax in Chicago holdups was reached by three men who robbed and assaulted Mrs.
C. H. Osterstorm in an alley off
Larrabee street, between Chicago and Hawthorne avenues, at 7 o'clock Saturday night.

Mrs. Osterstorm was passing the alley on her way to a grocery when the three men confronted her. One of them struck her on the head with
the butt of a revolver and felled her
to the pavement, rendering her partially unconscious.

The three then dragged her into the alley and undertook to rob her. She resisted valiantly and in the struggle
her clothes were nearly all torn off
her body.

The footpads succeeded in securing
her purse and tore her two rings from
her fingers, one of them a wedding ring. In doing this they scraped the flesh of the fingers to the bone.
Then they lifted their struggling

victim to the top of the garbage box
and assaulted her. By this time she was so nearly insensible as to be unable to make further resistance or outcry. Completing their attacks
her assailants shoved the struggling
woman into the garbage box, doubling
the limbs back in an unnatural manner, and, closing the lid left her for dead.

Three hours later she regained consciousness sufficiently to kick off
the lid of the box, but could not rise.
She called aloud and attracted the attention of passers. They took her home where she lies in a state bordering upon death. It is feared that she cannot recover.

Her husband promptly notified the
police of what had taken place, a physician giving his testimony as to the grave crime than robbery, and four detectives from the Chicago avenue
station were detailed upon the case.

GIFTS TO THE WARSHIP WISCONSIN

Governor La Follette Will Attend the Ceremonies,
and President McKinley Also Invited.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 18.—
Julius Bleyer, secretary of the Wisconsin Battleship committee, received a letter last night from Rear Admiral A. S. Crownshield, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, saying that the middle of May will probably be the most suitable time for the presentation of the Badger state's gifts to the ship which bears her name. A report that the ship was ordered to the Atlantic station was said to be incorrect. The letter said that while the movements of war ships are at all times impossible to forecast, the middle of May, as asked by the committee, would probably see the Wisconsin
at San Francisco.
The committee will at once invite President McKinley to attend the presentation ceremonies, as he is to be in California at about the time
planned.
Governor LaFollette who intends to attend the ceremonies himself will send this invitation, and others will take similar steps to induce the president to honor the event. The plans
now made indicate that he presentation will be attended by quite a party
of people. A special car will probably be filled with the party.
The bronze badger which was cast
for the ship has already been mounted, and the inscription plate which will go under it will be sent to San Francisco by express tomorrow. The silverware has not been shipped as
yet. A center piece decorated by Mrs.
George H. Paul of Milwaukee, is the gem of the set. It will be enclosed in a leather album with the ship's
name on the outside.

MACHINES RISK FARMERS' LIVES; INCREASED DANGER IN RURAL LIFE

Attention Called to the Widespread Use of Modern Machinery on the Farms and the Danger Attending the Use of It.

Strenuousness has come into the lives of the twentieth century farmer until, as insurance risks, he and his farm hand have few advantages over the engineer of a freight train which is running "wild."

Recently a seeming series of accidents of the rural districts has called attention to the widespread use of modern machinery on a farm and accentuated the dangers attending its use. Time was when a runaway team, an ax, and a falling tree were the chief menaces to the well being of an agriculturist. Today he may be mangled by a dozen different machines geared to high speed and of mechanisms intricate enough to demand more care and technical knowledge than is possessed by the persons concerned in running them.

One of the most omnivorous of machines at the present time is the corn shredder. In some sections of Indiana this machine has been given the name of "man eater" because of the accidents traceable to it, and in many cases a farm hand stipulates when he begins work that he will have nothing to do with the shredder.

Dangers in Shredder.

The shredder is a new necessity to the farm. Time was when the corn was husked or snapped from the stalk in the field and stock turned in to it to eat what they would of the weather worn blades and husks, tramping the rest into the snow and mud. Nowadays a sleeker and more delicate race of cattle housed in warm barns eat the cured fodder which already has been half masticated by the man eating corn shredder making its several hundred revolutions a minute.

Ravages of the Buzzsaw.

In Wisconsin, where there is still a wood to burn the buzzsaw has been having a little run in the casualty column. Even Illinois has had physicians' and coroners' reports on the effects of a buzzsaw beyond all proportion to its wood fuel supply.

Near Roscoe a saw that was cutting cord wood burst into fragments. Farmer Hardy had his leg broken by one of the pieces and another bit struck his watch, which was in his vest pocket, ruining the time piece.

P. J. Gibbons of Sharon was cutting firewood with one of these saws when he fell on the carrier and as carried forward, the saw cutting deep into his shoulder, narrowly missing the point of his lung. Henry Knapp, near Harvard, lost several fingers on a saw, and a Rockford man working at a saw in Wisconsin, was killed instantly by its bursting. At Lisbon, Wis., soon afterward, the separator in a creamery burst under its tremendous momentum, killing three farmers who were standing by.

In this way, in spring, summer, fall and winter, the necessary machinery on the modern farms is claiming victims, maiming and killing. Just as the modern necessities of urban life are claiming their victims every year, so the labor saving devices of the farm are making work for the doctor, the coroner and the undertaker.

Increase in Use of Machines.

Only a few years ago a thrashing machine run by slow horse power and turning out 500 or 600 bushels of oats was a wonder; today a steam traction engine hauls the separator into the field or farmyard and thresh 1800 to 2000 bushels in a day, stacking the straw automatically and keeping count of the measurements in the same way.

Few farmers feed whole grain to cattle any more. The feed mill, geared to uncertain horse power, is a barnyard necessity, and these, small as most of them are, make great inroads in the casualty lists of the country. The windmill is an ugly contrivance. Necessarily it has to be mounted high in air, and just as necessarily its running gear must be oiled frequently and adjusted. To do this somebody more or less accustomed to climbing must go up forty or fifty feet on the skeleton ladder. In a changeable wind a man is in danger of being swept from his perch or caught by one of the arms of the mill. Only a few days ago, near Chicago, a shifting mill caught a boy by the neck scarf and the twisting wheel strangled him to death before help could reach him.

Some of the patent hay stackers are dangerous to nearly everybody working near them. A stake pulling out of soft earth may throw them over, and their height and their weight make them a menace to life in case of collapse.

Mowing Machine's Perils.

The old mowing machine, in combination with the hidden stump or bees, always has been one of the perils of the farm. Many a finger, thumb, hand or foot has been tribute to it. The binding machines of the grain fields has become more intricate with the years, but its dangers have not been enhanced over those of the old harvester. It would be hard for a driver to fall into its sickle.

The hay baler, the grain feeder, the corn stalk cutter and the riding cultivator have lightened labor at a certain increase of the elements of danger to the operators. These, however, are not to be compared with the dangers that have come with the introduction of power machinery to farm work.

"Most of these accidents are due to carelessness," said a Chicago manufacturer. "One of the first requisites of a farm machine is that it be of simple construction, so that a man of ordinary intelligence can run it. Every successful machine must have this assured."

Attributed to Carelessness.

"But while a machine of this kind is simple it may be doubly dangerous unless care is used. When a buzzsaw is making 900 revolutions a minute it is unsafe to try to feel the wind of it with the hand. If a cylinder tooth of a thrashing machine is loose it is extremely dangerous to put the power on. If a mowing machine 'chokes down' it is a foolish man who pulls the grass out of the guards with his fingers."—Tribune

EXTENSIONS BY THE NORTHWESTERN

The Chicago and Northwestern Railway company officially announced that it will build a line from Waukesha, in a northwesterly direction, to Beaver Dam. When the Dartford-Marshfield line, now in the course of construction, is completed, it will have a gap between the latter line and the northern terminus of the Beaver Dam extension of but thirty miles. With this gap filled the Northwestern will have a new and very direct route between Milwaukee and Minneapolis and St. Paul and the great wheat belt of Minnesota and the Dakotas. It is not announced what the Waukesha-Beaver Dam extension is for, and the belief that it will be a part of the new route to St. Paul and Minneapolis is merely surmised.

From Waukesha the new line will pass through Pewaukee, Merton, and North Lake, in Waukesha county, cutting the southwest corner of Washington county, and thence running diagonally across Dodge county from southeast to northwest, through Juneau, where the Janesville division is crossed, to Beaver Dam. On the direct line to Dartford is Fox Lake, and if the connecting link to the north is in time built, it would pass through that city, Green Lake, and Lake Puckaway to reach Dartford, and the southern end of the Marshfield extension. At Marshfield the Dartford extension will connect with the Omaha.

Broke His Left Arm.

H. B. Johnson of 11 Milton avenue, father of E. C. Johnson of the Hotel Myers, slipped on a spot of ice at his home yesterday shortly before noon, and fell, breaking his left arm at the wrist. Mr. Johnson went out to the hydrant to get a pail of water, and when lifting the pail, slipped and fell. A doctor was called and the break attended to. Mr. Johnson is eighty-three years of age, and a break of this kind means much more to him than to a younger man.

MILWAUKEE HAS BECOME ANXIOUS

Fear That the C. M. & St. P. Road Will Run Through Passenger Trains Via Janesville & S. E.

The Milwaukee papers are very much concerned over what will be the result when the Janesville & Southeastern is open to traffic. They deny that it is the purpose of the Milwaukee road to run passenger trains on the cut off and declare that it will be used only for freight traffic. The Sentinel says:

"The statement in the Sentinel a few days ago announcing that Madison would probably be made the end of a run for Milwaukee freight trains to and out of Chicago over the Janesville & Southeastern branch of the road, has been taken up in the southwest section of the state as indicating that the road would also run passenger trains to St. Paul by that route, instead of through Milwaukee."

"This report has been repeatedly denied by President A. J. Earling of the Milwaukee road and the local officials of the system yesterday gave out for the first time a detailed statement of the work which has been done between Milwaukee and La Crosse to make that route the permanent one for passenger service."

This work, the most of which was finished last year, has already cost about $2,000,000 and a large amount of the money to be raised by the new $9,000,000 issue of stock in the Milwaukee road will be applied for further work in Wisconsin this season.

"The route by the way of Portage and Madison, over the new Janesville and Southeastern line has grades as high as ninety feet to the mile, and the first class passenger service afforded by the present route through Milwaukee could not be duplicated there. The line will be extensively used, however, for freight business."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

There are few theater goers familiar with great plays, who had not at one time or another a strong desire to see "Theodora" or "Her Last Race," the acknowledged masterpiece of the world's famous living playwright, and fewer still, in this part of the country at least, who have found opportunity to gratify their desire. The chance of a lifetime, therefore, comes tomorrow night when the great dramatic sensation will be presented by an organization of over fifty people. The production of this play will be the same as that which scored such an enormous hit in New York and Boston. A dozen of thrilling and sensational features serve to make this engagement an occasion of unusual interest. The sale of seats began this morning and the great demand for accommodations assures a worthy audience to witness the opening of what promises to be a week of extraordinary entertainment.

The Gay Masqueraders, one of the leading burlesque companies of the present day will play an engagement here of one night, Tuesday eve, March 21. Since their last appearance here they have made nearly an entire change in both performers and during the present season present entirely new burlesques, new acts and new scenery, costumes and electrical effects. Among the principal people of the company are the Three Savans, who do a comic acrobatic act; Swift & Huber, an original black face team in musical and comedy entertainment, assisted by the singing dog, "Blootch;" Sullivan & Inman in Irish songs, dances and witty sayings; John R. and Lillian Hoover, comedy jugglers and change artists; Ed. and Rolla White, comedy athletes; Margie Tebeau, comedienne and gun and baton spinner; Bessie Stanton in the latest illusion, statesque posing with novel electrical effects, and the Gay Masqueraders big ballet of twenty handsome young ladies in two new original burlesques written especially for this "Frisco" and "Snap Shot" both cast to the full strength of the company and replete with the latest up-to-date specialties, magnificent costumes and effective scenery.

Mr. Howard Gould, the successful young star of last season's "Prisoner of Zenda" production, will be seen in this city shortly in another play by the past-master of romance, Anthony Hope. In "Rupert of Hentzau," Mr. Gould's latest success, he impersonates the dual role of Rudolph and the King in a manner that has won him the highest praise throughout the country. The fact that the original Lyceum Theatre will be used, is a guarantee of the excellency of the production.

MICHIGAN TOWNS FLOODED.

St. Joseph River Is Spreading Destruction for 200 Miles.

St. Joseph, Mich., March 18.—The St. Joseph river, which is the largest stream in the state is overflowing, and the people living along its banks have had to move hurriedly to the interior. The ice suddenly left the river at an early hour in the morning and there immediately followed a flood such as has never been seen here before. The water along the 200 miles of the river's length, is seeking an outlet through the narrow channel of the harbor, and the result is that the surrounding country is flooded. Today more than a dozen fine boat-houses floated away lakeward, and huts of fishermen along the river banks were torn to pieces by the turbulent water. The entire factory district, which lies in the lowlands between St. Joseph and Benton Harbor was flooded to a depth of four or five feet, and the river at this point reached a width of nearly two miles. The water rose rapidly till level with the tracks of the electric railway connecting the two cities.

Somerleyton, a summer resort seven miles up the river, is being gradually wiped out. The resort was founded by Chicago people and consisted of a fine hotel, with one of the finest ballrooms in the state, and a score or more of expensive cottages. The water began rising at that point at 2 o'clock a. m. The caretakers of the place, who slept on the second floor of the hotel, were awakened by the splashing of water on the side of the house. They secured a rowboat from a nearby boat-house and, hastily packing up their possessions fled. The fugitives were obliged to row half a mile before reaching dry land. Before they left the place the water was three feet deep on the main floor of the hotel. The hotel and the surrounding cottages stand in the direct line of the terrific current and some of the smaller buildings went to pieces. This was one of the most beautiful resorts along the river and the only one located on low ground. It is impossible to estimate the amount of damage. The bridges are carefully watched. The water overflows the docks in many places, the total rise so far having been nearly five feet.

To Give St. Louis $1,000,000.

St. Louis Mo., March 18.—Andrew Carnegie will give $1,000,000 to the city of St. Louis for a public library building, half of the amount to be expended on the central structure and the other half on branch offices in the outlying districts of the city. The gift is accompanied by the usual conditions, but the city is in a good position to meet all requirements. Mr. Carnegie's philanthropy is exerted in this direction as a result of the efforts of the Rev. Dr. S. J. Nicolls of the Second Presbyterian church. Dr. Nicolls began correspondence with Mr. Carnegie two years ago on the subject and the magnificent donation is now assured.

Gen. Dewet Reported Insane.

Bloemfontein, March 18.—Prisoners who have lately been released by Gen. Dewet say they think he is a madman. They aver that the terrible fatigue he has undergone, his anxieties and the intensity of his feelings have unhinged his mind. Apart from this view of Gen. Dewet's mental state some of his peculiarities are that he rarely sleeps within the bounds of his camp. He seeks his rest outside, with a few trusted followers. He imparts his plans to no one.

Knox to Take Griggs' Place.

Washington, March 18.—Attorney General Griggs will leave the cabinet of President McKinley within the next week or two, and his place will be filled by P. C. Knox, of Pittsburg, who has been prominently mentioned for the vacancy for the last two months. Mr. Knox practically has been decided upon as the successor of Mr. Griggs, and it is expected that he will be appointed and sworn in before Mr. McKinley makes his trip to the west.

War Claims Committee's Plans.

Washington, March 18.—The Spanish War Claims committee will organize some time within a week. Quarters are now being sought for the new officials. A chief clerk is to be appointed at a salary of $3,600 per annum. About 300 claims, involving approximately $38,000,000, have been filed with the state department for reference to the new board. The highest individual claims are not in excess of $2,000,000 each.

Tired and Nervous

It is easy to tell when your nerve-force and vital power are slipping away from you. When your day's work leaves you weary and exhausted; when you are so nervous, irritable and sleepless that your nights are passed in restless tossing; when you get up in the morning with no appetite for breakfast, and go around all day with a headache; you may be sure your nervous strength is being used up faster than it is being renewed.

"I was so run-down from neuralgia and LaGrippe that I was tired all the time and hardly had strength to walk across the room. Of course I could not do my work and I became greatly discouraged. A lady told me of Dr. Miles' Nervine and I sent for a bottle on trial. It helped me and I kept on using it and when I had taken two bottles I was able to attend to my household duties." MRS. PEARL BUSH, Holland, Mich.

Irrigation Problem in Utah.

The Great Salt lake is said to be in imminent danger of drying up, the drain upon it being due to irrigation requirements. The plan to build a canal from the headwaters of the Snake river and thus bring water into the Great Basin to replace the waste by evaporation is meeting with general favor. The agricultural sections of Utah are threatened with disaster unless something is done soon.

New York Botanical Garden.

The New York Botanical garden has about 5,400 species available for study in all the plantations, the conservatories and the wild parts of the park, exclusive of the lichens, fungi and algae. In the course of the year 48,895 herbarium specimens from all parts of the world were acquired. About 67,650 sheets, containing fully 112,050 specimens, were mounted and distributed in the herbarium cases.

THE THREE-LEGGED STOOL.

When Andrew Carnegie said good bye to his workmen and old business associates the other day, he uttered this very true saying: "Labor, capital and business ability are the three legs of a three-legged stool; neither is first, neither is second, neither third; there is no precedence, all being equally necessary. He who would sow discord among the three is an enemy of them."

A matter that should find a place not only in every work shop and factory, but in the brain of every man that toils in every department of life.

Mr. Carnegie is good authority on the various elements that contribute to business success. He has known what labor means, because he commenced at the foot of the ladder and worked his way to the top. He worked with his hands as well as his brain, developing business ability, and acquiring capital in a marked degree.

If organized and unorganized labor throughout the country could realize the force of Mr. Carnegie's statement, and appreciate the great truth it contains, there would be no longer any conflict between capital and labor, because capital would be considered the best friend that labor has.

If capital thoroughly appreciated labor as Mr. Carnegie appreciated it, there would be more charity and consideration, and less cause for complaint.

If all men realized the value of business ability, which includes honesty, energy, faithfulness, and a long list of other qualities, ambition along this line would be encouraged, and more ability displayed.

Mr. Carnegie's three-legged stool maxim may be homely in phrasing, but it will live long after he is gone. It suggests a bond of common interest between capital and labor that it is too frequently overlooked. Many men who work for corporations have the feeling that their employers are soulless, and unconsciously they adopt a grievance, and devote all of their spare energies nursing it. The work is so faithfully done that the grievance absorbs the man, until he reaches the point where he is ready to quit work at a moment's notice, and go on a strike, in sympathy with some other man's grievance.

He has started out on a one-legged stool career, and the chances are that he will go through life hunting in vain for the two missing legs, and discovering if he ever comes to himself, that grievances are very good pets, but very poor supports. There is an army of men sitting around on one-legged stools, envying people who have better furniture.

There is another class of men, not so numerous, but equally pronounced, who go the grievance man one better, and try to succeed with a two-legged stool. They have capital, usually inherited or borrowed, and employ labor, but lacking the business ability or the common sense to recognize it in others, make a failure of life. Janesville has some enterprises of this kind, with plenty of money, and no lack of labor, yet struggling along year after year on a two-legged stool basis, because too parsimonious and near sighted to discover that capital and labor are helpless, without business ability to direct.

This class of men, and they are to be found everywhere, are honest enough—they enjoy an excellent reputation, and good credit but they don't succeed, because honesty and good reputation are only two of many requirements necessary to success. There are plenty of men in business who fail to win, because of a two-legged stool policy. Mr. Carnegie did not belong to this class. He was a student of human nature, and when he found in his employ a boy like Charley Schwab, he recognized him and appreciated his ability. He found forty boys of this class among his common workmen, and encouraging their ambitions, helped them to work their way to the front, until they were able to take on responsibility as superintendents in various departments, at salaries ranging from $5,000 a year up.

Mr. Carnegie never practiced a "penny wise and pound foolish" policy. He was a large man in every sense of the term, and he possessed one of the most substantial three-legged stools that was ever manufactured, and he was the supervising architect.

His character, as well as his characteristics, are well worth studying by both the business and industrial world. Closely followed, the stock of three-legged stools would increase, and mankind would be benefited in proportion.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

There are a host of good men in this world who pose as good citizens, who are not entitled to the distinction. Men who are honest, industrious and sober, yet destitute of responsibility. Of the 4,000 voters in Janesville less than twenty-five per cent. of them ever visit a caucus, or take any of the burden of responsibility in initial government. They are not all kickers, because many of them are too indifferent to care whether the city has a government or not. But fully half of the number are tax payers, and financial interests, if nothing else, should prompt them to lend a hand.

The government of Janesville, like the government of all other cities, is as good as public sentiment demands. The people are always supreme in these matters. If through indifference or carelessness, poor representatives are elected to office, no one is at fault but the class of good citizens who shirk responsibility. It is just as easy to nominate and elect good, capable men to office as any other class, and the much maligned caucus is where the foundation of city government is laid.

The republican caucuses are to be held in Janesville next Wednesday evening. If the class of good citizens belonging to the republican party, will assume the responsibility of intelligent citizenship, and turn out to the caucuses every nominee for ward and city office will be a representative citizen. If the city ever needed a good council it needs it today. There are several important questions to be settled during the next year, and they should be handled by men who have the interests of the city at heart. Don't forget that the caucus is more important than the election. It's easy to kick after the mischief is done, but there's nothing in it, not even healthy amusement. Attend the caucuses and be a full-fledged citizen.

Ex-Senator Gorman of Maryland, has succeeded in disfranchising about 40,000 voters in his state, to gratify a personal ambition for office. He was practically dead, and his party was hopelessly defeated, unless the state could be redeemed, by questionable methods, and so the fair state of Maryland, at Gorman's behest, passed educational qualifications similar to Georgia and South Carolina, and as a result, 40,000 republican voters, many of them intelligent, are disfranchised. Congress sooner or later will be obliged to take a hand in the business, in the interests of simple justice.

Osteopathy is getting a liberal amount of free advertising as the result of legislative discussion. The science invites investigation and will not suffer as the result of close inspection. The medical board is also being freely advertised, and the public realizes as never before, that occasionally a small man can make a good deal of noise rattling around in a large pod. Dr. Curren, for instance, felt called upon to ask if osteopathy cured everything. The old doctor probably never lost a case himself.

Governor Wells of Utah has saved the name of his state from additional blemish, by vetoing the Polygamous bill recently passed by the legislature. Governor Wells is a Mormon himself, but he possessed the good sense to realize that the little state of Utah could not afford to insult the United States by placing on its statute books a law that is obnoxious to all intelligent people, outside the Mormon church.

Gov. Allen seems to be bungling affairs in Porto Rico, the island has been so gerrymandered as to make it impossible for the Federal party gaining control of the legislature; then a revenue act has been passed which is causing considerable dissatisfaction. We have troubles enough with out island possessions without bungling matters.

Cashier Johnson has gone and the good people of Niles are wondering how they were so easily duped. They possessed confidence in a rare degree, and were so captivated by it, that they refused to see, what must have been apparent to a casual observer. Confidence is very commendable, but watchfulness is just as important.

If Pres. Diaz is no longer able to hold the reins of government, he has left a machine which can be operated by any one who has the confidence of the people. Mexico is no longer the Mexico of Santa Anna, and may be congratulated upon her progress materially aided by her great president.

Minister Wu Ting Fang holds the rather unique position of criticiser of the American people, and yet not "persona non grata." We generally do not allow foreigners to say things to our faces; but when Mr. Wu sees things going wrong, he tells Americans what he thinks of them, and they in turn invite him to do so again.

In speaking of section 26 of the primary bill the Racine Journal says, "Why not let the county chairman nominate all of the candidates?" Sure, that would save expense and confusion. The law contemplates simplicity and suggestions are in order.

The Waukesha Press recommends a compromise on the primary election law, stating that all statesmanship is based on compromise.

The Two Rivers Chronicle maintains that no primary law can prevent the holding of caucuses, which is very true, and they would be packed for the occasion.

Lord Salisbury is gloomy because he not only sees the trade of the world slipping away from his country; but he also sees the former prestige of English armies fading away. This nation and Germany are partly responsible for the lonesome look on the premier's countenance.

The fight that has been going on against Commissioner Evans of the Pension Bureau, is likely to culminate in his removal. He has made himself unpopular with the Grand Army, and the office will undoubtedly be filled by one of their own number. The president is said to favor a Western man, and Colonel Weissert of Milwaukee is favorably mentioned. Mr. Weissert is a good man and his many Wisconsin friends would like to have him secure the place.

It will require more than the presence of Uncle Ike Stevenson to popularize the primary election law in Madison. Many of the legislators have heard from home, and they don't all live in Uncle Ike's district.

The Kenosha News claims that the people were not carried away with anxiety for a primary law during the campaign. The news should console Mr. Strange of Oshkosh. He says that from sixty to 75,000 a day shouted themselves hoarse for the bill, when he was touring the state.

The Madison Journal has discovered a number of goats in the senate but fails to point them out by name. The members are going around with serious faces, asking the old time Judas question, "Is it I?"

Mr. Carnegie's recent munificence in endowing numerous public libraries throughout the west, has been a noteworthy lesson in the art of judicious giving.

Impeded Circulation In the Arms Cured.

For over four years I have been troubled with my arms. At times, they would be numb from the elbow down, and then again I would feel a sensation as if there were a thousand needles in my arms; so that sometimes I could not sleep or do anything. I have tried various remedies, but all to no effect. I went to see Prof. H. Ripken, who gave me only two treatments and now my arms are entirely cured and I can sleep all right. His method of treatment has been a revelation to me and I heartily endorse it.

PARENTS' RECEPTION AT HIGH SCHOOL

THOROUGH INSPECTION OF VA- RIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

The Big Building Was Brilliantly Lighted Saturday Evening and Every Room and Hallway Thronged With Visitors—Teachers On Hand to Guide and Inform Them.

The Janesville High school has become a living reality, a powerful force in the eyes of many hundred people to whom it was only a hazy, indefinite idea prior to Saturday evening. This literal making of the blind to see was accomplished by the parents' reception given at the building at which time exceptional opportunities were given visitors to see every department of work.

The building which was brilliantly lighted from basement to roof, was thronged with visitors during the entire evening. They were not mere curiosity seekers, either, but were present for a purpose. That purpose they accomplished in the examination of the work of their sons and daughters as compared to that of their class mates and in the personal interviews with teachers whom, in many instances, they had not even known by sight before.

Supt. D. D. Mayne was in the main hallway to receive the guests and the chief charm of the reception was its informality. Each guest toured the building at will and spent the most time where his interests were the greatest. Everywhere the guests found the teachers ready and glad to give the desired information.

Miss Emma Paulson presided in the mathematics room; Miss Gertrude Zeininger in the literature recitation room; Mrs. Frances Whittaker in the general recitation room; Miss Carrie Zeininger in the Latin and German room; Prof. A. E. Cance in the history and civics room and Prof. George Duffley in the business recitation room. These rooms were only of peculiar interest to those interested in special pupils for the work done in them is of such a nature that it cannot be used for exhibition purposes. To the student, the work on the blackboards and in the notebooks were evidences of excellent methods in teaching.

The business practice room, with its bank, postoffices and private desks where every student of book-keeping conducts some special business, proved an interesting corner to many and Prof. Richard Eagen was besieged with questions concerning his methods. The biological laboratory where Miss Harriette Holt presided was also an interesting and novel room and spectators spent much time in the physical and chemical laboratory where Prof. John Arbuthnot and some of his pupils conducted interesting experiments. Occasionally Prof. Arbuthnot showed stereopticon views in the science recitation room.

The art room, the latest addition to the school was one of the most attractive. Prof. W. F. Gaskins received the guests and was pleased with the interest manifested in the exhibition of work done by grade and high school pupils.

The manual training and domestic science departments were especially interesting because active work was in progress and because they were a novelty to the most of the visitors. Young men were at work in the foundry and in the carpenter shop and in the drafting room there were finished proofs of their skill. Prof. Brace was in charge of this department.

The domestic science department appealed directly to every one for Miss Hostetter and her class of white capped and white aproned young cooks served delicious cocoa and cookies to all. The exhibition of cakes, bread and etc. was so tempting that everything was sold before the evening was over.

Many of the visitors expressed regret that their own school days were over and certainly all who attended the reception have a higher appreciation of the great work that is being done in our public schools. They can better realize why high school work is attractive and not odious to students.

FREE GOSPEL SERVICES.

Rev. W. B. Culliss and His Stereopticon at Court Street Church.

Rev. W. B. Culliss of Chicago spoke to a large gathering last evening at Court Street M. E. Church. Many went away unable to secure seats. He first presented as an art prelude a series of photo and painted slides some of which were exquisitely beautiful. The lights were then turned up and he preached his famous sermon on "Reconciliation" which was a truly masterful effort and moved many to tears. Mr. Culliss is a strongly dramatic preacher. He would have made a good actor. He took the ground that it is the sinner and not God who is unwilling to be reconciled. The loving Christ wants to be gracious. Following the sermon the hymn "Abide With Me" was sung by the choir. Sixteen pictures, some of them of the very finest art illustrated this line. Altogether the service was exceptionally attractive. It was also helpful. For nine more evenings free gospel services will be given. The stereopticon will be used each night.

THE SUBJECT DISCUSSED WAS "CHRISTIAN UNITY."

A. H. Spencer Spoke for Episcopal Church, W. S. Jeffries for Congregational, and B. F. Dunwiddie for the Baptist—The Service is Attracting Some Attention.

The laymen's service at the Christ church last evening was an excellent one and was enjoyed by a large congregation. Interest in this series of profitable services is growing and several visitors from other churches were present last evening.

The subject was "Christian Unity" and A. H. Spencer, representing the Episcopal church, was the first speaker. He argued that the only tangible proposition before the world in the direction of Christian unity provided that the churches find one common basis. The tendency of today is in the direction of forms of worship and a prescribed liturgy. The reasonable proposition on which all Christian churches should unite is the acceptance of the Scriptures as containing all things necessary to salvation; of the apostle's creed as the baptismal symbol and the Nicene creed as sufficient statement of the Christian faith; of the sacraments of baptism and the Lord's Supper, and of the historic Episcopate locally adopted in the methods of church administration.

The acceptance of this common basis would carry with it the correction of many evils which spring from a self-constituted ministry. No basis less ancient or lofty would meet the situation. The proposition does mean absorbing other churches into the Episcopal church; it means adding something to the other churches. Members of Protestant Episcopal churches are no more exclusively members of Christ's church than other denominations and all look forward to a Christian unity and fellowship.

W. S. Jeffries presented a very able paper on Christian Unity from the standpoint of a Congregationalist. He believed that never in the history of the world were so called Christian people more nearly one. Truth is many sided and man's comprehension limited. Not all men see truth from the same standpoint and so it makes its appeal to different men with different force. Nor are all men impelled to the same action by their vision of the truth.

There can be no doubt of the universal desire for greater unity, but there is a question as to the method. Any attempt at unity based upon the conforming to certain rites, ceremonies or symbols is futile. There is a difference between church unity and Christian unity. Each denomination has a work which it can do better than any other. However, there are concessions which can be made without sacrifice, such as the selection of a common week of prayer and of a common night for the mid-week service.

In new districts and mission fields Christian unity should forbid the entrance of a second church where one already on the ground is adequate to the needs of the people. In behalf of Christian unity there should be better acquaintance, more and stronger sympathy between churches. Co-operation; not competition, should be the watch word. A new era is dawning—an era of Christian liberty in Christian unity.

Following in the same line of argument some very pertinent suggestions were made by B. F. Dunwiddie, who represented the Baptist church. He agreed with Mr. Jeffries that man is so constituted that uniformity in forms of worship is a present impossibility. Even natural objects, the beauty of a glorious sunset, awaken different emotions in different individuals. But while we do not see alike as to religious truth, do not worship alike, do not think alike as to many doctrines, there is a unity possible and desirable.

The spirit of intolerance and bigotry is akin to the spirit which nailed Christ to the cross. Two spirits animate mankind—the Christ spirit, which would do God's will on earth, and the spirit of anti-Christ, which would do the will of self and Satan. It is the great mission of Christ's followers to show to the world the beauty and the blessing of the Christian spirit. All that the world sees of Jesus is what it sees in His followers. Christianity is more than a form of worship, more than a doctrine—it is life. The highest, noblest, most powerful Christian unity is the attainment and the manifestation of the Christ spirit.

Rev. A. H. Barrington thanked the gentlemen heartily for their able addresses and for the spirit of fellowship shown. The music of the evening was very fine, the anthems by the Christ church quartet being listened to with pleasure.

W. C. T. U. WILL ASK FOR A CURFEW LAW

PETITION TO THE COMMON COUNCIL BEING CIRCULATED.

Children Under Fifteen Years Prohibited After Certain Hours—Bell Shall Be Rung Known as the "Curfew Bell"—The Petition is Being Liberally Signed.

A movement is on foot among the citizens of Janesville and especially among the members of the W. C. T. U. to have the common council pass a curfew ordinance. Members of that organization have started out with a petition which is being signed by a large number of people and nearly all of the ministers of the city, asking the council to pass the following ordinance.

"Children under fifteen years of age shall not be on the streets after 8 p. m. from October to March, both inclusive, or after 9 p. m. in other months, without proper guardianship. A bell shall be rung fifteen minutes before the appointed time as a warning, called the 'Curfew Bell,' after which a child is required to be in his home or off of the streets, unless in company of parent or guardian, or bearing an excuse dated and signed that day by parent or guardian declaring the same to be on emergency errands. Any child loitering on the streets shall be warned by the constable or taken home, the parent or guardian summoned for allowing his child to habitually break the law after having been warned in writing and may be fined for the first offense."

The petition is being liberally signed about five hundred names already being attached to the list.

The people who have this affair in hand are very much in earnest over the matter and claim that something should be done to keep the children off the streets in the evening.

A great many young children in the city are allowed to roam the streets during the evening and contract habits, which if they were left at home would be strangers to them.

Left Hand Terribly Mangled.

Woods' office, where the injured member was attended to and the sufferer made as comfortable as possible.

Rice is a Candidate.

At the request of many of my friends I hereby announce myself a candidate for re-nomination as alderman of the First ward. Relying on my record of four years in the council I ask for the support of the voters at the coming caucus. Walter S. Rice.

FUNERAL OF GEN. HARRISON

Last Sad Rites Administered at Indianapolis.

PRESIDENT GIVES ROSES.

The funeral yesterday was of a private character, the general public having paid its last respects at the State House Saturday.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 18.—In the presence of a notable assemblage—the body of Gen. Benjamin Harrison, the twenty-third president of the United States, was laid to rest in Crown Hill cemetery yesterday. The president of the United States, members of President Harrison's cabinet, governors of surrounding states and illustrious Indiana citizens followed the body to the grave. The burial occurred just at sunset. The burial scene was notable and picturesque. Thousands of people surrounded the grave and remained until the last solemn rites had been said and the body lowered to its last resting place. Gen. Harrison's grave is in lot No. 13, by the side of his first wife. From the ceremonies at the First Presbyterian church to the final benediction at the grave the funeral was without a parallel in this city. The streets through which the cortege moved were dotted with thousands of spectators, who stood in places for hours waiting a chance to catch a glimpse of the coffin bearing the distinguished dead and of the men who accompanied it.

Funeral Distinctly Private.

The funeral was of a distinctly private character, the state having paid its last respect to the dead on Saturday, when 40,000 people filed through the statehouse, from noon until 10 o'clock at night, where the body lay in state. On that day the entire national guard of Indiana was out and people from all parts of the commonwealth gathered to do the last honor to the distinguished statesman. The scene at the church was one of solemn and impressive beauty. Admission was by ticket, yet the building, which holds a thousand people, was crowded even in the aisles and thousands stood outside. Shortly after 2 o'clock the coffin, borne by representative men of the city and state, was placed before banks of palms and flowers in front of the pulpit. It was wrapped in the national colors, and almost hidden with wreaths and other floral tributes. The church had been handsomely, but simply decorated for the occasion, and the air was redolent with the perfume of flowers. Banks of roses supported the pulpit, and the offerings were so numerous that they had to be piled up at the sides of the pulpit and placed in the pews in front. Their beauty was never before surpassed on any similar occasion in this city.

President Gives Wreath of Roses.

President McKinley gave a beautiful large wreath of roses, and clubs and organizations of this city and in various parts of the country sent offerings. Prominent among them all was an expensive offering from the lodge of Chinese Masons in this city. The decoration of the church consisted of long streamers of crape, in which were entwined other streamers of white. On either side of each door to the structure was a large American flag caught with ribbons of crape. An impressive feature of the decorations was seen in the pew which Gen. Harrison had held for forty years. It was vacant, no one being allowed to occupy it. On the back of the pew was a large silk American flag, caught at several different points with black and white bands of crape. The blue field of the flag was suspended by a pillar of crape, and over it were entwined slender lines of smilax. The pew was just in the rear of those occupied by Mrs. Harrison and the immediate members of the funeral party.

Widow in a Front Pew.

Mrs. Harrison, accompanied by Lieutenant-Commander Parker of the navy, her brother-in-law, occupied the front pew, and with her sat E. F. Tibbitt, the general's private secretary, with the general's sister. In the pew just behind the widow and the secretary Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Harrison sat, and in the one just behind them Mr. and Mrs. McKee. The pews in the rear of these were occupied by Gen. Harrison's brothers. In the front pew opposite to the one Mrs. Harrison occupied sat President McKinley, with his secretary, Mr. Cortelyou, and Gov. and Mrs. Durbin. In the one just in the rear sat Senator and Mrs. Fairbanks, and near them were other distinguished men who had come for the funeral. Admiral George Brown, Maj. Charles Shaler of the United States arsenal of this city and Senator Beveridge and the governors of adjacent states sat near by. The church at large was filled with an audience representative of the state of Indiana and the city of Indianapolis. State officers, judges of the Supreme court, Indiana authors and other prominent citizens were seen in numbers.

The honorary pallbearers were: Ex-Secretary of the Navy Benjamin F. Tracy of New York, ex-Postmaster-General John Wannamaker of Philadelphia, ex-Attorney-General W. H. H.

Miller of Indianapolis, ex-Secretary of the Interior John W. Noble of St. Louis, ex-Secretary of the Treasury Charles Foster of Fostoria, O.; Gen. Lew Wallace of Crawfordsville, Judge Judson Harmon of Cincinnati, who was attorney-general under President Cleveland, and Judge William A. Woods of Indianapolis. The active pallbearers were all from this city, and were men who were friends of the general for many years. They were: Augustus L. Mason, James Whitcomb Riley, Evans Woodlen, Harry J. Milligan, Clifford Arrick, William G. Bobbs, Harry S. New, Howard Cole, John L. Griffiths, Newton Booth Tarkington, Hilton U. Brown and Samuel Reid. Dr. Haines delivered the funeral sermon, reading it from manuscript.

Gen. Harrison a Patriot.

The Rev. Mr. Haines said: "What a noble example he furnished of intelligent and courageous and continuing patriotism. He felt himself to the last to be a vital part of the nation. He did not lose his interest in its welfare after he came out of office. On the contrary, that interest deepened and increased until the strength of it upon his mind and heart was heavy. The fiber of his patriotism was American to the core. Flitely does the flag of the nation cover his casket and adorn the walls at this service. That flag! How time and time again it sent the blood racing through his veins. How his very tones would grow tremulous as his waving folds met his eyes, and his voice was uplifted in support of all that it symbolized. He loved his country with a passionate devotion, and believed that it was a country worth dying for and worth living for. Patriotism is a great word here in America, and is growing greater. It must be so. It must grow with our growth and deepen and strengthen with our strength as it did in him. A distinguished scholar has declared that the development of individual manhood is all that is vital in human history, and that is true. Institutions, organizations—yes, governments—are but the scaffolding for the building of individual manhood."

At the Cemetery.

It was nearly 5 o'clock when the line of relatives and friends came up the graveled path to the tomb. The stillness of evening had come. There was hardly a sound in the air. On the arm of Lieutenant Commander Parker Mrs. Harrison took her place at the head of the coffin, which had been borne to the side of the grave by the pallbearers. Through the heavy mourning veil which she wore there were visible marked signs of the grief through which she had passed. President McKinley came to the grave with Mrs. Durbin and stood with her during the brief service. When the prayer was offered the president was seemingly in deep thought and remained so with bowed head after the final word had been said.

President McKinley Goes East.

After the return from the cemetery, which was at nearly 6 o'clock, the president went to Gov. Durbin's for a short stay and dinner and then to the depot. His car was attached to the regular train leaving at 7:10 over the Pennsylvania road. The president was escorted to the Union station by Gov. Durbin, Senators Fairbanks and Beveridge. The former senator was with him almost the entire day. His car was dropped from the train at Canton. He will leave for Washington after a day's stay at his home.

NILES CASHIER IN JAIL.

C. A. Johnson of Michigan Arrested at Columbus, Ohio.

Columbus, O., March 18.—Charles A. Johnson, cashier of the First national bank of Niles, Mich., was arrested here on a charge of wrecking that institution. He was placed in the emergency hospital at the police station because of his physical condition. He was surprised at his arrest, but promptly confessed his guilt and expressed a desire to return to Michigan as soon as possible. He is badly broken in health, much emaciated and very nervous, due partly to the severe nervous strain of the last ten days and to excessive drinking. Johnson for twenty-five years was cashier of the Niles national bank, and was trusted implicitly by the officials. A short time ago he began dabbling in stocks, and to cover his losses, it is claimed, began to steal from the bank. His method was the manipulation of forged notes and checks, but the details of his system were not imparted to the Columbus police.

New York, March 18.—Mrs. Carrie Cobus was killed by her dog. With her husband, her son and her mother Mrs. Cobus lived in West Eighteenth street. She was subject to epileptic fits. She fell in a fit, and Mrs. Broadhead, her mother, went for help. When Mrs. Broadhead and Philip Rockefeller, a neighbor, entered the room where Mrs. Cobus lay the pet terrier was sucking its victim's blood. The dog had buried its teeth in Mrs. Cobus' throat and severed the jugular vein. Mrs. Cobus bled to death.

FATAL EXPLOSION ON SHIP

A Tank Bursts, Killing Two, Injuring Many.

WILD SCENE IN STEERAGE.

The American Line Steamship New York Meets with Four Accidents While on Its Way from Southampton to New York City.

New York, March 18.—Two men were killed and twenty-four persons injured by the explosion of an ammonia tank on the American line steamship New York while at sea bound for this port last Thursday evening. Scores of others were overcome by the fumes, but have recovered. Scores in the steerage came near perishing from the ammonia fumes, and nothing but the quick work of the officers saved them. On the voyage four accidents threatened the life of the big liner, which came struggling into port last night with a broken shaft. The wounded were at once taken to hospitals. None will die. The dead, who had been buried at sea, were: John Kent, assistant steward, in the steerage; John Enquist, a Swede, in the steerage.

Encounters Severe Gale.

The New York left Southampton Saturday, March 9, and Monday encountered a northwest gale, which, with the heavy sea, several times brought the ship to a stop. Thursday evening at 6:45 the vessel was shaken from stem to stern by a mighty explosion. An immense tank of ammonia on the steerage deck, aft, and near the steward's quarters, had let go. The heavy cover of the tank was blown off, the fumes reaching all quarters of the steerage. It seemed that there could be no escape for the hundreds of immigrants penned in there. On account of the severe weather all the ports and storm doors were closed and the hatches fastened. There was a wild scramble for the portholes. The passengers trampled one another, only to fall, overcome by the fumes. A few were about to get their heads out of portholes, and they stood there, shutting off the air from the others and fighting away the weaker ones, who were struggling to save themselves. A few fought their way to the deck.

Heroism of Engineer.

An alarm had been sounded and the officers and crew rushed for the steerage. All this time ammonia was flowing from the main tank to the wrecked one and adding to the danger of the situation. The man for the moment was the refrigerating engineer. He put on a diver's helmet and his companions pumped fresh air to him while he went in and shut off the ammonia. The captain had in the meantime ordered the hatches off and the ventilators turned. Streams of water were also poured into the steerage and the steward headquarters. Brave attempts were made to rescue those who were imprisoned in the fumes. Both the captain and the purser joined in the work. No one could breathe the air for more than a minute. It was a dash in and out again with anybody who could be found. Third Officer McDonald brought out the first victim, but when he rested his burden on the deck he found it was a dead body. The dead man was Carl Enquist.

Many Rescued Unconscious.

Back he rushed again, and this time he returned with a woman on his shoulders. She was unconscious, but she still lived. Others bearing life burdens rushed past, and the rescued were left lying on the deck until the fresh air revived them. Still others were led out reeling like drunken men. At last it was announced that all were out but then it was discovered that two stewards were missing. Another dash was made for them, and they were carried out, both unconscious. One of them, Kent, died within a few minutes.

Passengers Give $426.

It was a pitiful scene when the body of Carl Enquist was laid out. He was a widower and was coming to America with his three little children. They sat beside their dead parent and refused to be comforted. The passengers made up a purse of $426, which will be shared in by those little ones and Kent's widow and orphans.

A SAD CASE.

But the Doctor's Time Was Very Limited.

"Yes, doctor," remarked the agitated young woman in the doctor's office, "the dear little thing seems to be teething, and he means and whimpers so pitifully, and, really, I don't know what to do."

"How old?" inquired the medical man soothingly.

"He's just 3 weeks and 2 days old, and—"

"Good gracious!" remarked the physician. "That's pretty young for teething to begin."

"Yes," she continued, "and the poor little thing's hair is coming out so dreadfully, and—"

"Hair coming out!" exclaimed the doctor. "My dear madam, are you quite certain that?"

"And he won't even touch the milk I give him in his little saucer, but—"

"Madam, you give a 3-weeks-old child milk in a saucer?"

"And he does nothing but race from one room to another and keeps jumping up on the coverlet of the best bed, and—"

"Three weeks old and racing from one room to another and jumping up on beds!"

"And he's so terribly anxious to chew things—to sharpen his poor little teeth, I suppose—that he has eaten up two of my hats and a pair of Jack's slippers and four palm leaf fans, and the leather bindings of two volumes of Macaulay's 'History of England,' and—"

"Oh!" exclaimed the medical man, a great light breaking in upon him. "Madam, my time is very limited. I am very busy. Moreover, homeopathy has not yet advanced sufficiently far to render its practitioners capable of diagnosing the teething difficulties of fox terriers. There's a dog doctor in the next street, four doors to the right. Good morning, madam; go-o-o-d morning."—Pearson's.

A Great Civilizer.

"The telegraph is a wonderful civilizer," said the tourist.

"Yes," answered Broncho Bob. "We certainly appreciate it. When Crim-Gulch was first settled, the trees was so scrubby that we couldn't lynch a man without lettin his toes touch in a most unartistic manner until the telegraph company put up a lot of poles."—Washington Star.

Certainly Not Harmful.

Abram (shouting)—Do you really find that medicine any good for deafness?

Ebenezer—Hey?

Abram (screaming)—I say, do you find that medicine any good for deafness?

Ebenezer—Waal, sir, I've been hard of hearing nigh on to 15 year, an I ain't never took anything else.—Philadelphia Press.

Molly's Letter.

Little Molly sat down to write a letter to her father, who had been absent three months, and this is what she finally sent: "Dear Father—We are all well and happy. The baby has grown ever so much and has a great deal more sense than he used to have. Hoping the same of you, I remain, your daughter, Molly."—Exchange.

Reminders of Home.

She was relating the beauty of the sea voyage.

"And was there anything to remind you of dear old Chicago?" he asked.

"Oh, yes, indeed," she replied. "Every day some one would say: 'Come up on deck. Here is another tramp.'"—Chicago News.

Neither One Thing Nor the Other.

Honax—He claims to be very swell, but he's rather ordinary, isn't he?

Joax—Yes; he's like the meat in a sandwich—he's just between the upper crust and the underbred.—Philadelphia Record.

None to Imitate.

"Now, Johnny," his mother said as they started for church, "I want you to behave like a good little boy."

"I can't!" blubbered Johnny. "I don't know any good little boy!"—Chicago Tribune.

Sate.

Wife—Oh, Cressus, my dear, I hope you won't step on any tacks! Husband—That's all right. No danger. I'm a notorious tack dodger.—Chicago News.

No Invitation to Continue. Mr. Gaswell—The concert of the powers may be drawing to its close.

Mr. Dukane—I don't think there'll be an encore.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Mike's Ignorance.

Mike—Why do thim false eyes be made of glass, now?

Pat—Shure, an how else could they say throo 'em, ye thickhead!—Tit-Bits.

Paris, March 18.—Count Boni De Castellane wounded Fernand De Rodays in their duel near this city on the first exchange of shots. The count was not touched. M. De Rodays was hit on the outside of the right thigh, five inches below the hip joint. He bled freely at first, but the hemorrhage was soon checked and a temporary bandage was applied on the ground.

George Hunt Is Dead.
Chicago, March 18.—George Hunt, attorney-general of the state of Illinois from 1884 to 1892, member of the state senate from 1874 to 1884, a veteran of the civil war and a prominent member of the Chicago bar died at his home in Riverside at the age of 60 years.

British Soldiers in a Fight.
Halifax, N. S., March 18.—A rather serious clash between imperial and Canadian soldiers occurred in the garrison. Eighteen royal artillerymen took possession of one of the principal streets, creating trouble. A detachment of Canadians was sent out to arrest the gunners, who showed fight. The infantry were ordered to charge with fixed bayonets. One of the mutinous artillerymen was stabbed through the left hand. The artillerymen were taken prisoners. The offenders claim to have been celebrating the festival of St. Patrick. The usual procession of Irishmen was dispensed with this year.

All Candidates Are Women.
Denver, Col., March 18.—At the convention of prohibitionists a full municipal ticket, composed entirely of women, was placed in the field. ## CATARRH

Catarrh has become such a common disease that a person entirely free from this disgusting complaint is seldom met with. It is customary to speak of Catarrh as nothing more serious than a bad cold, a simple inflammation of the nose and throat. It is, in fact, a complicated and very dangerous disease; if not at first, it very soon becomes so.

The blood is quickly contaminated by the foul secretions, and the poison through the general circulation is carried to all parts of the system.

Salves, washes and sprays are unsatisfactory and disappointing, because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does. It cleanses the blood of the poison and eliminates from the system all catarrhal secretions, and thus cures thoroughly and permanently the worst cases.

Mr. P. H. McAllister, of Harrodsburg, Ky., writes: "I have been a terrible sufferer from Catarrh, and being young and well, the question often put to me is, 'What cured you?' I answer I feel it my duty to state that Swift's Specific is the medicine. I am such a true believer in the efficacy of Swift's Specific that I can honestly and conscientiously recommend it to any one suffering from Catarrh. Have recommended it to many, and am happy to say that those whom I have induced to use it can bear me out in the statement that it will cure any case of Catarrh if taken according to directions."

SSS is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and the greatest of all blood medicines and tonics.

If you have Catarrh don't wait until it becomes deep-seated and chronic, but begin at once the use of S. S. S., and send for our book on blood and skin diseases and write our physicians about your case.

Omega Oil

FOR CHILDREN—If your little boy or girl comes home from school or play with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Omega Oil. There isn't a bit of danger in using it freely, for there is no turpentine or ammonia in it. A whole barrelful of it would not burn or blister the tenderest skin. Children like to have their mothers rub it on them, because it smells so nice and is such a beautiful green color. It is a pure vegetable oil liniment, which does not evaporate, and you must keep rubbing it in until it is all taken up by the pores. Mothers ought to remember that "a stitch in time saves nine," and keep a bottle of Omega Oil in the house all the time. A bottle of it on the shelf is a necessity in every home. It is a protection and safeguard, much the same as a lock on your door. You may not need it very often, but when you DO need it, you need it bad.

Your druggist sells Omega Oil, or can get it for you of any wholesale druggist. The Omega Chemical Co., 257 Broadway, New York, will mail a bottle, prepaid, for 50c. in cash, money order or stamps.
